We do contact complainants to let them know police are investigating other matters, whether they've been through Towards Healing or not.

In the case of McAlinden's the information we hold is minimal, as they did not pursue a formal complaint through Towards Healing. Basically, the allegations were made in 1999 by  $\begin{bmatrix} AL = AK \end{bmatrix}$  who indicated that they were not then willing to speak to the police about it. We have no information which would identify the informants, eg, is there only one ?

A copy of the information provided by the then PSO Director to the then CPEA on 24 August 1999 is attached.

or your general information, the Towards Healing protocols may be accessed at http://www.acbc.catholic.org.au/bc/profstan/index.asp Regards

Rosanna,

I've been in touch with  $\mathcal{AC}$  and spoken with her and I'm letting her have a couple of days to digest that Denis McAlinden has been located and to work out what she wants to do, but thought she may supply a statement.

I'm not sure of the protocol from your end, but do you ever contact people who did not want to go ahead with the Towards Healing process to let them know police are investigating other matters?

I guess I was looking at AL & AK any thoughts?

Mark

Under Towards Healing, complainants are routinely advised of their right to take their complaint to the police and they only enter the process if it is clear that this is not their present intention. They are free, of course, to change their mind at any point in the process, in which case Towards Healing would be suspended pending the outcome of a police investigation.

In the  $\mathcal{AC}$  case, she indicated that she had not reported the matter to the police and did not intend to do so. However, she also specifically stated that her experience could be used in corroboration hould other complaints of criminal behaviour be made against McAlinden. Regards

Rosanna,

I'm investigating the complaint from AE I'm not aware of the protocols with Towards Healing, but with the complaint from AC did she ever report the matter to police or require any police investigation?

Thanks,

Mark

Dear Mark

I can confirm that the PSO holds three files relating to Denis McAlinden: one relates to allegations made by  $AL \ge AK$ , which did not proceed to a formal complaint under Towards Healing; the other two were formal Towards Healing complaints made by AE and AC I trust this information is helpful. Michael Salmon
